This cookies policy describes:

1. What are cookies and why are cookies used?

1.1 Cookies are small text files which are placed on your device when you visit and use our Site. Cookies will collect information relating to your use of our Website, information about your device such as IP address and browser type, demographic data and, if you reached the Site through a third party website, which third party website directed you to the Site.

1.2 Cookies allow websites to recognise you, remember your preferences and tailor your use of a website. Information provided by cookies can help us to analyse your use of our Website and help to provide you with a better user experience.

1.3 Cookies are referred to as either "session" or "persistent" cookies, depending on how long they are used for:

- (a) Session cookies only last for the duration of your online session and disappear from your device when you close your browser. Session cookies are not stored on your device's permanent storage (such as a hard drive).
- (b) Persistent cookies are stored on your device after the browser has been closed and last until you delete them or they reach their expiry date. Persistent cookies are activated each time you visit the site where the cookie was generated.

1.4 For more information, please see www.allaboutcookies.org.

2. What types of cookies do we use?

2.1 The types of cookies that may be used on our Website fall into one of four categories as follows:

- (a) 'Strictly Necessary' cookies. These cookies are essential for the operation and performance of our Site and enable you to access certain features. Without these cookies, we would be unable to provide you with the online services you request. These cookies do not track where you have been on the internet and do not gather information about you that could be used for marketing purposes.
- (b) Functional cookies. Functional cookies are used to recognise you when you return to our Website. They also remember your preferences (such as your username, language and region) on our Website and enable us to personalise our content for you. The information collected by these cookies is usually anonymised, so we cannot identify you personally. Functional cookies do not track your internet usage or gather information which could be used for selling advertising, but they do help with serving advertising.
- (c) Analytical cookies. Analytical cookies are used to monitor the performance of our Site. For example, they allow us to recognise and count the number of visitors and to see how visitors move around our Site when they are using it. The information provided by these cookies allows us to analyse patterns of user behaviour and we use that information to enhance user experience or identify areas of the Website which may require maintenance. All of the information collected by these cookies is anonymous and is only used for statistical purposes.
